מי אנחנו?

Prof. Jacques Ehrenfreund

Prof. Jacques Ehrenfreund is the Dean of the Faculty of Theology at the University of Lausanne. He specializes in the history of Jews and Judaism in modern and contemporary times and is interested in the question of the construction of groups and social identities in the era of nationalization of European societies and the role filled by religious legacies in this setting.

He works on the plural modes of secularization of Judaism, putting them into perspective with those operating in the management of other legacies. German-language Judaism, a veritable laboratory of Judaism's modes of thinking in modernity, was the center of its work. It is from this angle that he is more interested in the question of the interaction between politics and religion.

Among his topics of interest are the history of Jews and of Modern and Contemporary Judaism, Israel, Diaspora, Socio-cultural history and the Shoah.

Dr. Daniel Gerson

Dr. Daniel Gerson was born in Zurich in 1963. In 1989 he received his Lizentiat / Master in History at Basel University. In 2004 he received his PhD. at the Center for Research on Antisemitism (Prof. Dr. Wolfgang Benz), Technical University Berlin. Between 2007-2011 he was a Scientific Assistant at the Center for Jewish Studies at the University of Basel. Since 2011 he has been a scientific assistant and lecturer in Modern Jewish History at the Institute of Jewish Studies, University of Bern. His main fields of interest: European-Jewish History after the Holocaust; Swiss-Jewish History; French-Jewish History; Modern Antisemitism.

Dr. Gerson is the forum's Senior Scholar and Coordinator.

Prof. Muriel Katz

Prof. Muriel Katz is a professor of psychology at the University of Lausanne. During the past five years she specializes in the transmission across generations in the context of social violence and political repression.

One project in which she examines this topic is called Participating in a Story and a Genealogy after the Shoah: the test of genealogical crime on psychic transmission. It has been conducted with the support of the Fondation pour la Mémoire de la Shoah in Paris. In this qualitative research project, the issue of subjective and group repercussions of the Shoah is studied from the double point of view of clinical psychology and history (with Prof. J. Ehrenfreund, UNIL).

On a methodological level, it shows how to account for the traumatic impact of genocide on historicization process; how to account for the unconscious impact of genealogical crime on representation of family ties; it also explores whether the free realization of a genealogical tree is an adequate projective tool to explore the fantasmatic dimension of family ties in the context of social violence.

On a thematic level, it shows how survivors of genocide and descendent of survivors elaborate their life stories, which kind of symbolic resources are used in life stories process about social catastrophe, which are the traumatic traces of innumerable deaths when realizing a genealogical tree after a genocide, what is the impact of social violence on cultural markers.

Prof. Hans-Lukas Kieser

Prof. Hans-Lukas Kieser, historian, is an Associate Professor at the University of Newcastle, Australia and an honorary adjunct professor at the University of Zurich, Switzerland.
